The class of 18 maiden two year olds capped off a full day of horse shows and the western yearling sale in Tulsa, Oklahoma as the 2010 Reichert Celebration finished the week. The final day of NSBA and AQHA shows is today, Sunday, August 15.

Equine Sports Medicine.

The Saturday night entertainment before the Equine Sports Medicine Two Year Old Western Pleasure Challenge took an unexpected turn, literally, when guest driver of one wagon, Troy Compton, and his “cook” Kenny Petet (owner of the chuckwagon teams), were thrown from their chuckwagon as the races started pitting Compton against guest driver Charlie Cole, in a rematch from Friday night. Nelson Otero attempted Super Hero status trying to catch the driverless team as they circled the arena but his leap fell short. Brian Baldrige, with Shane Rux Photography, jumped into the arena and was managed to jump into the empty wagon and get the runaway team stopped without serious injury to horses or the men in the arena. Unfortunately, the scheduled race was called a forfeit. While the turn of events caught everyone off guard, all were relieved that no one was hurt.

The Reichert Celebration has had a strong charitable fundraising tradition and Saturday night raised more money for the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, a cause close to the hearts of the Reichert Family and also Stanley and Susan Scott, long-time friends and supporters of the Celebration. Susan Scott donated two “Cor-huahua” puppies that were auctioned off for JDRF. Thank you to Gerri Leigh Pratt and Aspen Grove Ranch for providing new homes to the two puppies while donating to the JDRF. Gerri has named her puppy “550” and his sister was named “Foxy.”

Donna Morgan donated Vested Passion, a mare bred to A Touch Of Sudden for a February 2011, to be auctioned off with the proceeds going to the American Diabetes Association in memory of Ron Reichert. The mare, by Vested Pine out of Sheza Banjoe, was purchased by Stanley and Susan Scott.

Nancy and Luke Wilkerson and Susan Scott, representing Coast To Coast Trailers, presented the JDRF raffle prize to Patrick and Sara Heeley.

HAPPY TRAILS ~ SEE YOU NEXT YEAR!
